International Women's Day 2026

Wollondilly Women in Business (WWIB) is a thriving collective of local businesswomen who come together to connect, learn, and grow, both professionally and personally. At the heart of WWIB is a genuine spirit of sisterhood: a space where ideas are celebrated, connections are nurtured, and every woman is seen, supported, and empowered.

Through dynamic events and an inclusive community, WWIB cultivates an environment where women from all industries and stages of business can collaborate, build confidence, and spark new opportunities. From friendships to partnerships, our network continues to grow in depth and impact.

As we prepare to host our 2026 International Women's Day event, we invite you to be part of something meaningful. The WWIB brand continues to gain momentum across the region, and together with your organisation, we can honour the achievements of local women while inspiring the next generation of changemakers.

Wollondilly Women in Business Presents

International Women's Day 2026

Theme: Women Who Have Impacted Our Community

Join us as we honour and celebrate the remarkable women, past and present, who have shaped our local community through their leadership, service, innovation, and care. From quiet changemakers to bold trailblazers, this year's theme shines a spotlight on the women whose impact has left a lasting legacy in Wollondilly and beyond.

We will come together for an evening that recognises the diverse ways women contribute to our community – whether through volunteering, public service, healthcare, education, entrepreneurship, the arts, or grassroots activism. Their stories are powerful. Their presence is felt. And their work is worthy of celebration.

This inspiring evening will feature our Guest Speaker Deborah Hutton, live entertainment, local voices, and an opportunity to connect with women from all walks of life. As always, WWIB is committed to creating inclusive spaces that uplift, empower, and honour women – while championing progress toward a more gender-equal world.

Speaker Deborah Hutton

Australian Media Personality

Deborah Hutton is a treasured, prominent and much – loved Australian media personality. With an impressive career spanning over four decades, Deborah began her career at the age of 16 when she first appeared on the cover of Australian Cosmopolitan magazine. Capturing the hearts of the nation, Deborah went on to flourish in an exceptionally decorated media career that saw her become the ambassador for brands like Myer, Qantas, Holden and the face of L’Oreal’s Olay Regenerist range.

A trusted, respected and relatable voice in the Australian media landscape, Deborah has hosted multiple lifestyle programs for the Nine Network and Foxtel, along with being the editor for over a decade at Australia’s number one selling magazine, The Australian Women’s Weekly. Deborah’s multifaceted and exceptional career has also seen her launch her own range of homewares, Home with Deborah Hutton as well as authoring two cookbooks.

More than a household name with an honourable career, the mass appeal and magnetism of Deborah has always been her relatability, down to earth nature and the way in which she resonates with her audience. As such, after surviving significant facial skin cancer in 2010, and subsequently her second in 2020, Deborah’s advocacy, determination and commitment to skin cancer awareness and education on a national scale saw her align with life-saving national campaigns and initiatives.

Passionately promoting that prevention is always the better option, Deborah launched her own stylish collection of UPF50+ sun protective hats in 2021; Canopy Bay by Deborah Hutton. The hugely popular brand exists to not only help others learn the severe dangers of the sun’s UV rays, but provide a solution for maximised protection.
